Enterprise Communications Have Become More Varied and Complex

As more businesses shift to a hybrid model of work, there has been incredible growth in the use of various SaaS applications for communication and collaboration. For businesses that need to properly capture communications for compliance purposes, this explosion of apps can be a nightmare. Given the legal and financial risks involved, you must secure your communications.

Simplified Archiving and eDiscovery for all of Your Communications

Merge1 is a unified, flexible, easy-to-use archive solution. It captures communications from over 120 sources, including Microsoft 365, and stores them in the archive or eDiscovery platform of your choice. Capable of running on existing infrastructure, with a smooth deployment and no training necessary, it is also fully customizable, allowing you to set user-defined templates and rules. Merge1 can run on-premises or on a dedicated private cloud. It eliminates the burdens of migrating archives to a third-party data store or having to run parallel archives.

Officially endorsed by Microsoft, Merge1 empowers Microsoft 365 users to capture communications from all platforms. You can continuously capture communications in their native formats and retain them for compliance with regulatory bodies such as the SEC, FINRA, FDA, and more. Merge1 consolidates all your disparate communications to one centralized, easy-to-search archive.

Simplicity

Install and deploy Merge1 archiving and eDiscovery quickly, and set it to capture communication data automatically.

Control

Store your archives anywhere you want for easy access, either on-premises, hybrid, or on Microsoft Azure.

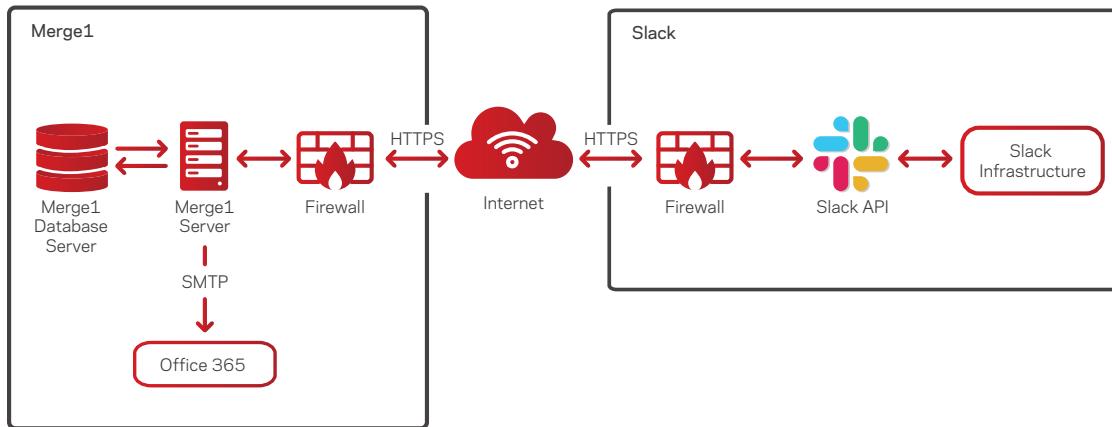

Peace of Mind

Be confident knowing you're meeting regulatory compliance needs for all your organization's communication platforms.
